Logan County Wheat.

The Lincoln Herald says: "It is thought that very little spring wheat will be sown in Logan county this year, as nearly all of the available plow land is in fall wheat, which is looking well and bids fair to get through the winter in good condition; another reason is that corn is selling at a good figure and is likely to be at least a fair price next year."

The attempt made to raise spring wheat in Macon county has proven a failure, and for several years our farmers have devoted their whole attention to cultivating winter wheat and corn, and they find that it pays to have as little to do with spring wheat as possible.

Rev. Crane on Rev. Finnerty. The following communication published in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat is doubtless from the pen of Rev. J. W. Crane who is the correspondent at Nokomis for the paper named:

NOKOMIS, ILL., Feb. 19. The arrest of Rev. M. Finnerty in Chicago, yesterday, for attempting an indecent assault upon Miss May Sheridan, a choir singer in the Washburn Avenue Methodist Church, of that city, published in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, has furnished a text for a bit of personal history. His real name is Michael Finnerty, of Irish descent. He was born in Washington county, Maryland, in the year 1838. Young Finnerty was educated for the Roman Catholic priesthood. Ten years ago he joined the Illinois Annual Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church at Decatur. He has been stationed in South Chicago, Middletown, Athens, and Bath. After preaching six years, he finally located and went to Fremont. Upon his return, a year later, he was appointed to the Conference, and preached in South Chicago, and located again in 1878. Finnerty was never married, but has pressed his suit for the hands of several fair ladies, but time and again his offers have been rejected. Finnerty tried to marry a Chicago girl, but her mother disapproved of the match, but the girl backed out, saying, "He's too affectionate." This is the first public charge that has ever been made against him for immorality. Not being a member of an Annual Conference, the Quarterly Conference of the church of which Finnerty is a member will have full power to act in his case.

"Finner than Anything." Among the many curious and amusing things done by the twenty-one trained elephants in the Barnum-London show, is a scene where one elephant, dressed as a clown, walks into the ring and sits down in a chair. Reaching out his trunk he picks up a dinner bell on the table in front of him and rings it for dinner. A servant enters with a loaded tray and places a "square" meal on the table. The clown elephant then helps himself gracefully to the various dishes, picks up a champagne bottle filled with water and empties it into his mouth. He then takes a napkin and wipes his face and trunk. The servant removes the tray of dishes and the elephant, picking up a palm leaf fan with his trunk, leans back in his chair and leisurely fans himself. Professor Armstrong, his trainer, proposed giving him to smoke a pipe of tobacco, but Mr. Barnum remarked that his performers and army of employees were men of exemplary character and his clown elephant should not be permitted to degrade himself by setting them bad examples. While this ludicrous and amusing display of animal intelligence is being exhibited a dozen other elephants are busy in the same ring. Three of them are playing at sevens, one is rolling a barrel around the ring with his forehead, another is turning the handle of a large organ, while still others are standing on their heads at the top of high pedestals. Rev. M. Finnerty, the celebrated evangelist, while witnessing the same yesterday in company with several clergymen, declared it to be the most delightful display of something beyond instinct that he had ever conceived the brute creation to be capable of. "Courtesy opens many doors." says the old adage. "This may be true as far as it goes," says a commentator; "but you might stand before a bank building and courtesy till your spinal column was as limber as an old postage stamp; and the doors would not swing on their hinges worth a cent."

A Most Singular Escape.

From the Decatur Gazette.

One of the most singular adventures and wonderful escapes from death ever recorded took place in this city Saturday morning. At that time Mrs. Peter Anderson, who lives in the vicinity of the Halfway house, and who had been up town, was returning to her home. She had to cross the railroad. Just then a C. & B. & Q. train was coming, and she stepped back in the C. & R. I. & P. track to allow the train to pass, not noticing that at the same time a train was backing down toward her on the C. & R. I. & P. road. The latter train struck her before she was aware of its coming, and knocked her down, she falling immediately between the rails. The train came on and the cars passed over her prostrate body, the brakes and trucks striking her successive hard thumps. The locomotive was the last to reach her, and its fire-box, coming very near the ground, pushed and rolled her along the track for some distance. Fortunately a cattle-guard was near, and when she reached it the firebox faced her between the ties into the ground, and the locomotive passed on. Those ties are close together, and it is not understood how she could have been forced between them with out killing her, but the fact remains. She was picked up and attended by Dr. Sloan, who at first thought she was dangerously hurt. Her skull had sustained a slight fracture, and the flesh had been torn from her body in several places. Her shoes and stockings had also been ripped off. Subsequent examinations, however, proved that her wounds are not fatal, and with proper care she can recover.

She is a young woman, and has only recently been married. She owes her life to a fortunate combination of circumstances, and to the fact that she is not a very large woman. After one has been through such an ordeal as that there need not be much fear of death from accident. At the last report she was doing very well.

Victor Hugo's Joyous Faith. "I feel in myself the future life. I am like a forest which has been more than once cut down. The new shoots are stronger and livelier than ever. I am rising, I know, toward the sky. The sunshine is on my head. The earth gives me its gen- erous sap, but Heaven lights me with the reflection of unknown worlds. You say the soul is nothing but the resultant of bodily powers. Why, then, is my soul the more luminous when my bodily powers begin to fail? Winter is on my head, and eternal Spring is in my heart. Then I breathe, at this hour, the fragrance of the lilacs, the violets and the roses as at 20 years. The nearer I approach the end the plainer I hear around me the immortal symphonies of the worlds which invite me. It is marvelous yet simple. It is a fairy tale, and it is history. For half a century I have been writing my thoughts in prose, verse, history, philosophy, drama, romance, tradition, satire, ode, song. I have tried it all. But I feel that I have not said the thousandth part of what is in me. When I go down to the grave I can say, like so many others, 'I have finished my day's work.' But I cannot say, 'I have finished my life.' My day's work will begin again the next morning. The tomb is not a blind alley; it is a thoroughfare. It closes in the twilight to open with the dawn. I improve every hour, because I love this world as my fatherland, because the truth compels me as it compels Voltaire, that human divinity. My work is only a beginning. My moon mission is hardly above its foundation. I would be glad to see it mounting and mounting forever. The third for the infinite proves infinity."

The supreme court of Tennessee has decided that municipal officers cannot resign and leave their offices vacant in order to defend the order of the court directing them to levy taxes. The constitution says that all officers hold their offices until their successors are elected and qualified. If the rule holds good in this state, then some of the DeWitt county officers may get into trouble.

Why the Chinese Should Go.

Salt Lake Herald.

On the northward bound Utah Central train the other day a couple of Chinamen were conspicuous. They got on at Milford and were presumably en route to a more prosperous latitude. That they and their kind are unfit for association with the cultivated Caucasian was evidenced in many ways, nearly everything they did and all they said being totally at variance with the prevailing features of the Anglo-Saxon. There was room in the car, and when the heat got very near the reversed the back of the seat opposite them, took off their shoes and placed their clean stockings feet on the cushions. This is an innovation not to be tolerated, and the fact that a Chinaman is not sufficiently imitative to get mud on his shoes and hoist them in that condition on to a plush-covered seat is a conclusive argument to the effect that the Chinese must go.

A very audacious but skillfully contrived diamond robbery took place in Paris recently. A man giving his address as Col. Gaston, of the United States, went into a jewelry shop and selected a number of expensive diamond ornaments, valued in all at $25,000. These he put into a small leather bag, for security in traveling, as he said, which locking he placed on the counter in full view of the salesman. Then he took out a pocket and appeared to be busy making some calculations. While so engaged a confederate entered the shop and asked to look at some handsome shirt-studs, and while the salesman was opening the show case to take them out he managed to secure the leather bag and to slip into its place a duplicate bag. As soon as the confederate had withdrawn, the self-styled colonel offered a check for his purchases. The salesman said he must have cash, whereupon the colonel handed him over the duplicate bag and left, saying he would soon return with the money, which, of course, he neglected to do.

A Novel, and Perfect Cure for Scrofula Salt Rheum, Cancer, Etc.

A discovery has recently been made which adds lustre to the nineteenth century. It consists simply in an extract from the Red Clover Blossom, as extracted by J. M. Looze & Co., Monroe, Mich., who have given it the name of "Red Clover Extract." This is but a slight testimonial of my appreciation of your efforts in behalf of humanity, which you are welcome to use for their benefit. I am very respectfully, H. ARMS.
